

Post-doctoral Fellowship Announcement 2023-2024

Ann Arbor's Arbor Psychology Group is pleased to announce an adult/adolescent fellowship for the next academic year, beginning September 2023. We are seeking applicants for this fellowship from students currently in a PhD or PsyD clinical, counseling, or school psychology program.

Fellows will have opportunities to advance their skills in a wide range of areas. Fellows have flexibility and can give input on how to balance their caseload & what types of concerns and populations they want to work with. All fellows may give input on their preference of supervisor prior to the start of the fellowship beginning.

Fellowship Experience

This fellowship focuses on therapy and diagnostic/clinical assessment. There is not a testing component. The fellow will provide individual therapy for adults (only) or adolescents/adults with a wide-range of concerns. In addition to solidifying knowledge and experience in general clinical practice, fellows may choose to gain specialization in eating disorders, couples therapy, trauma, perinatal/postpartum concerns, or OCD/exposure/response prevention. In addition, fellows may have opportunities to lead/co-lead group therapy sessions.

About Arbor Psychology Group

Arbor Psychology Group is well-respected throughout the community for providing high quality mental health services across the lifespan- from pregnancy/infant mental health through adulthood. Our therapists frequently share cases- working with multiple family members- with the opportunity for rich connections and collaborations. Our mental health team often works with our speech-language therapist and occupational therapists to provide multidisciplinary, comprehensive treatment. Our group offers ongoing professional development with frequent guest speakers and case consultation meetings emphasizing lifelong learning.

Following the completion of the program, there are opportunities to stay on and join our team. Arbor Psychology Group therapists respect one another, truly enjoy working together, and look forward to welcoming a post-doctoral fellow in the coming year.

Arbor Psychology Group has multiple locations in Michigan. This fellowship is for the Ann Arbor location only.

Benefits

Compensation is competitive. Fellows are W-2 employees. Salary is approximately $60,000-$75,000 depending on hours billed. (Typically, Fellows will be expected to see 20-25 clients/week, with a gradual ramp up of caseload). 15 days PTO. Flexible schedule, with time to study for the EPPP and maintain a healthy work-life balance. A minimum of 2 hours/week of supervision is provided, with additional group consultation time.

To apply

Applicants from members of under-represented groups including minorities are especially encouraged to apply. Interested applicants should send a cover letter, resume, and 2 letters of recommendation to Dr. Beth Pearson at DrBethPearson@gmail.com.
